Program Summary

This 160-Hour, 4-week program is available to students 19 years and older. Students will receive the training necessary to be successful as an entry level truck driver. The program begins with commercial license permit (CPL) preparation and FMCSA ELDT theory, during which students are prepared to test for their CLP. Once students have gained a CLP, they will continue to the driving range, street, and highway practical exercises. Every student will practice all of the skills necessary to safely operate a tractor trailer and successfully complete the CDL Class A road exam. Students learn and master turning, backing and shifting skills on an 80+ acre driving range. Once student drivers have gained experience and confidence on the driving range, the training continues with street and highway driving. All training including the FM CSA ELDT Lab/BTW is conducted in preparation of the Class A CDL road exam.
